

John D. Halamka, MD, MS, is the International Healthcare Innovation Professor at Harvard Medical School, Chief Information Officer of the Beth Israel Deaconess System, and a practicing emergency physician.

He strives to improve healthcare quality, safety, and efficiency for patients, providers, and payers throughout the world using information technology. He has written 12 books, several hundred articles, and the popular Geekdoctor blog.

He is also an organic farmer in Sherborn, Massachusetts, overseeing 70 acres of agriculture, animals, and cider/mead making.