Dr. Nava Shaked

Dr. Nava Shaked is a faculty member of HIT – Holon Institute of Technology – and an Adjunct professor at the PhD program at CUNY GC, Computational Linguistics Department. She holds a Ph.D. from CUNY GC since 1994. Shaked is an expert in Natural Language processing, artificial Intelligence and in Human-Machine interaction, with 20 years' experience both in speech technology research as well as leading major projects in Israel, Europe and the US. Shaked was acting as an advisor for major enterprises specialized in Voice Technologies, leading customer strategy, designing system architecture, providing some Professional Service and heading projects from the client's end. Shaked is a member of AVIOS board and has founded the local Israeli chapter which she chairs. Her book (co-authored by Ute Winter) "Design of Multimodal Mobile Interfaces" was published 2016.