

Robin Bortz

Nuance Voice Biometrics Sales Development Manager and Product Expert for EMEA at Nuance Communications.

Has extensive experience in promoting advanced and innovative technologies to global markets. He was previously part of the PerSay team that was acquired by Nuance. In his current position, Robin focuses on supporting both partners and customers in the region, with technical knowledge as well as market insights and trends together with information on successful deployments, allowing customers to realize the potential of cost savings, the power of combating fraud and enhancing security as well as the value of creating great user experiences across all channels.

