Avi Cohen
Director of Global Dental
Stratasys Ltd

In 1999, Avi Cohen joined the Stratasys Ltd (formealy Objet Geometries Ltd) after nearly seven years on the graduate business faculty at New Haven University Connecticut. Since coming to Objet Geometries Ltd, he has served on the Global Customer Support Manager, brings with him seven years of experience in management of international customer support organizations. Prior to that, he served at different bio-medical companies, in various executive customer and product support high management positions, both in Israel and in the APAC.

Since 2005, Avi's career took another leap forward as he has been involved in developing and setting up global applications solutions responsibilities at Objet Geometries Ltd, and in past years focusing on the growing medical and dental segments.

In his current position, Avi Cohen is managing the worldwide dental and medical solutions at Stratasys Ltd. He has experience in the following industries: Medical CT and MRI, Dental scanning and software solutions, 3D Printing, modelling and design – in both marketing and business development aspects. Avi is a recognized technology leader known for requisite strategic vision in bringing digital solutions into dental and medical arena.