

Professor Aravind Galagali is a member of KBJNL Board of Directors. KBJNL better known as Krishna Bhagya Jala Nigam Limited – a Govt. of Karnataka undertaking is responsible for Planning and Execution of irrigation projects like Ramthal Project in its demarcated territory in Karnataka – a southern state of India.

He is also an integral part of Technical Sub-committee of KBJNL.

An alumnus of India's prestigious Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur, Professor Aravind presently is associated with Academics in Karnataka's renowned BVB college of Engineering and Technology at Hubli.

Professor Aravind has been instrumental behind Ramthal Project, seeing light as Asia's one of the largest community drip irrigation project.