Amit Bleiweiss is a senior data scientist at NVIDIA, where he focuses on large language models and generative AI for healthcare and life sciences. He has 25 years of experience in applied machine learning and deep learning, with over 50 patents and publications in the domain. Amit received his degrees from the University of California at Berkeley and the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, where he specialized in machine learning.