

Session title - The Device is No Longer a Device: Convergence in Medical Technology

Talk title - the future of male contraception

Abstract - Proventis is a medical device company developing a long-term, reversible, non-hormonal contraceptive solution for men. The company's technology is designed to address a major unmet need in reproductive health by offering men a reliable alternative to condoms and permanent vasectomy. Proventis is developing a minimally invasive implant-based approach intended to provide effective contraception while preserving the possibility of on-demand reversal.
