

Assaf Halevy is a Digital Health Entrepreneur with over 20 years of experience innovating, leading and executing trail blazing healthcare initiatives in the US and global market. Currently, he is the founder and chief executive officer of 2bPrecise Technologies, LLC, leading an international team dedicated to bridging the final mile between the science of genomics and the clinical decision at point of care, Precision Care, the next generation of healthcare.

Mr Halevy is responsible for several innovations in the areas of actionable clinical integration, interoperability, and precision medicine, developed with 2bPrecise and during his previous leadership role with dbMotion. Mr. Halevy has participated in various U.S. government policy-making tasks forces related to precision medicine and privacy issues. In 2016, he was among a select group of executives invited to the White House by then-Vice President Joe Biden to discuss the future of interoperability.

Mr. Halevy holds a Bachelor of Science degree, with honors, in computer science from the Academic College of Tel Aviv-Jaffa and Tel Aviv University, as well as Genomics and Genetics certification from Stanford University.