

Ilana Mandel, PhD

Ilana is VP of Research & Development at Biond Biologics, a clinical stage Biotech company developing innovative immunotherapies for cancer, which recently partnered with Sanofi for its lead product. Previously, she was Director of Research and Discovery at cCAM Biotherapeutics, a company that developed novel immunotherapies for cancer and was acquired by Merck in 2015. Ilana led the discovery, research and development of various projects from innovative ideas up to clinical stages and has extensive knowledge and experience in immunology and drug development. Ilana holds a Ph.D. in immunology from the Technion – Israel Institute of Technology.