

Janneke van der Kamp
Head Novartis Pharma, Region Europe

As Head of the European pharmaceuticals business for Novartis, and member of the Novartis Pharma Executive Committee Janneke van der Kamp is a dedicated servant leader.

She leads a 9b$ business and a diverse team of around 8000 passionate, enthusiastic associates who enable our innovative medicines to reach patients across Europe. Her day-to-day activities range from leading and facilitating strategic discussions, problem solving, coaching, listening & learning, to motivating her team to reimagine medicine.

With a background in strategic consulting, a masters degree in biochemistry from Utrecht University, a MBA from INSEAD, and a degree in music, her leadership approach is anchored in the ability to make connections across all areas of the business.

With international experience spanning global, regional and local roles in both strategic and commercial positions, Janneke believes in creating a working environment built on trust and flexibility, which is inspired, curious, and unbossed. She's always excited to share her insights to help others succeed. By centering her ambitions on values such as diversity and inclusion, respect, and collaboration, she seeks to have a positive impact on the lives of the people around her and all those our work impacts, from healthcare professionals to patients.

Janneke and her husband and two children enjoy living in Basel, Switzerland with its great nature to ski and hike, but call the Netherlands home. Her husband is a professional musician/artist (conductor, composer, comedian, and painter). They met when she studied violin, so music and art remain an important part of their lives outside of work.
