Dedi Gilad - Bio

Dedi Gilad is CEO and co-founder of TytoCare, transforming the primary care industry by bringing doctor's visits into the home with remote physical exams that provide affordable, always-on, and accessible primary care for all. TytoCare works with healthcare insurers and providers to provide better access to primary care virtually, with a handheld exam kit that connects users with a clinician for a medical exam and telehealth visit no matter where they are.

In the decade since co-founding the company, Mr. Gilad has led the launch and establishment of TytoCare as a major player in the telehealth market. Under his leadership, the company has built partnerships with nearly 200 major healthcare players across the world, and TytoCare has become synonymous with the best telehealth examinations and monitoring. Mr. Gilad and TytoCare have been recognized as a leader in the telehealth market, with awards from ATA, Fast Company, MEDICA, Forbes, and more, and have established a track record of improving access to healthcare and better telehealth adoption and results than other solutions on the market.

Prior to TytoCare, Mr. Gilad led R&D at several major international companies. He has an MBA in Technology Management and a B.Sc. in Industrial Engineering from Tel Aviv University.
