

Neta Lavon, Ph.D.

CTO and VP of R&D

Aleph Farms

Dr. Lavon serves as the CTO and VP of R&D of Aleph Farms, a global food company established in Israel. Neta has over 20 years of experience in stem cell applications in biotechnology, specializing in the commercialization of emerging technologies for industrial utilization. Prior to Aleph Farms, she was COO of the biotech company Kadimastem (TLV:KDST), developing cell therapy products for ALS and neurodegenerative diseases. Previously, as a researcher at Cedars-Sinai in Los Angeles she led the establishment of repository of 25 novel pluripotent stem cell lines. Dr. Lavon holds a Ph.D. in Genetics, an M.Sc. in Biotechnology, and a B.Sc. in Food Sciences from the Hebrew University in Israel. In 2017 upon Aleph Farms establishment. Dr. Lavon joined the company founders, as the VP of R&D, to lead the technological strategy of the company. Today Neta is the company's CTO, overseeing research and development and scale-up of technology platforms towards production of various products from animal cell cultures.