Ofer Chen, PhD

With over two decades of clinical and healthcare management experience, Dr. Ofer Chen is leading innovation as VP of Clinical Development in Clew Medical, a company focusing on AI-based solutions for the wide array of healthcare systems' challenges.

Dr. Chen has received his MD from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, and his MPA from Harvard University. He is an internal medicine specialist, with a sub-specialty in healthcare management. Before joining Clew Medical, Dr. Chen has taken a central role in designing, opening and operating Israel's newest hospital in Ashdod, where he served as Deputy Director for 4 years. Prior to that, he was leading Maccabi Healthcare Services' Community Health department, where he oversaw Maccabi's Primary Care Physicians (PCPs) and healthcare professions.

On his spare time, Dr. Chen enjoys running and meditating, and is always happy to gain another loss over the chessboard. In addition, he hasn't yet given up on playing guitar, although most of his audiences strongly support that conclusion.
