

Rafael Torres – Sr. Managing Director & Head of Healthcare, GE Ventures

Rafael leads GE Ventures healthcare team and is responsible for portfolio strategy. Under Rafael's leadership, GE Ventures has invested in multiple successful healthcare businesses including Nanostring (NASDAQ:NSTG) and Veracyte (NASDAQ:VCYT). Previously, Rafael was the global healthcare leader for GE Equity, GE's private equity platform, where he built a practice with over 30 investments including ParadigmHealth (Alere), Navinet (Horizon Blue Cross) and Euromedic (BAML Capital). Rafael has held a number of board roles including CardioDx, Navinet, InSightec and ParadigmHealth. In previous roles at GE, Rafael served as an operating executive in the integration of GE's largest acquisition, Amersham, and in the M&A team at GE Healthcare. He has been a judge in the Assembling Tools to Fight Cancer Challenge, and has been featured in leading publications including The Gray Sheet, Medical Device Daily and MedCity News. Before joining GE Rafael held various positions at The Boston Consulting Group, AT Investments and Citibank.

He holds an MBA from Harvard Business School and a B.S. in Economics from Universidad del Pacifico.